DEATH'S DOOR

SWUNG OPEN FOR THE EXIT OF OHIO'S GOVERNOR.

HIS LIFE'S WORK IS FINISHED

From Farmer's Boy He Rose by Degrees to the Exalted Station of Chief Officer of the Buckeye State—Soldier, Lawyer and Business Man.

Cincinnati, O., June 19.—The remains of Governor John M. Pattison will not be taken to Columbus for a state funeral. His own wishes and those of his family are for a quiet service at home.

vice at home. There was for a time some question whether there would even be public services at the Methodist church in Milford, to which the governor belonged. However, it was decided that such services would be held under charge of Rev. Marion LeSourd, the pastor of the Milford church and the body will be laid to rest on the hillside near Promont.

The funeral as planned provides for services at the home of Governor Pattison. The services will be the simple funeral rites of the Methodist Episcopal church. There will be no services by the Masonic fraternity, Grand Army of the Republic, nor any of the other societies with which the governor was affiliated. The Masons and Grand Army will be represented in the list of honorary pallbearers.

The governor's son, John M. Pattison, Jr., who is a student at Harvard, could not be reached immediately after the governor's death, but was finally communicated with and the final arrangements were made. The son came home in March, when his father was believed to be in a critical condition, but later returned to college as the patient seemed to be gaining strength and health.

Many telegrams of condolence were received from all parts of the country, business, social and political acquaintances, uniting in expressing regret at the death of Governor Pattison.

Lieutenant Governor A. L. Harris wired from Eaton, O., as follows: "Mrs. John M. Pattison—Please accept my heartfelt sympathy on account of your sad bereavement."

Telegrams of condolence were received from State Treasurer W. B. McKinnon, Columbus; O. W. Carpenter, Cleveland; James L. Scott, Hamilton; Charles Hamilton, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Conner, Columbus; W.

circumstances, being only a tenant farmer and afterward the proprietor of a small country store. That of itself tells the story of the boy's early life. At 16 he enlisted and served during the closing days of the civil war. He afterward taught school until he had earned money sufficient to attend the Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, O. The class with which he graduated has a remarkable record. It has furnished a vice president, two United States senators, three governors, an attorney general, several members of the national house of representatives, one bishop, one professor in a university, one general in the Spanish-American war, a commissioner of internal revenue, ten judges, several state senators and some other prominent men. In the same class were two men who now figure conspicuously as presidential candidates for 1908—Vice President Fairbanks and Senator Foraker.

After graduation Mr. Pattison went west to write insurance. While engaged in this business he studied law and was admitted to the bar. At the end of ten years' practice he was invited to enter his old insurance company as vice president and general manager and he accepted. In time he became president of the company and held that position until his death.

When a young lawyer Mr. Pattison was put on the Hamilton county legislative ticket at a time when there was little hope for the cause. The ticket won, the young attorney leading. When his term was ended he returned to the law. In 1890 the Democratic state leaders asked him to become a candidate for state senator from the district which included his native county. He had transferred his home from Cincinnati to Milford in Clermont county and was eligible for the honor. He had already put himself on record as an advocate of the Sunday closing law and a strong opposition was arrayed against him. The senatorial interests banded together to defeat him, but he won. That victory and his subsequent work in the legislature sent him to congress in 1896. Before the close of the term Ohio had been re-elected and Mr. Pattison found himself a resident of a district with a large Republican majority.

The Pattison home is at Milford, in the Little Miami valley, 14 miles out of Cincinnati. Mrs. Pattison is the daughter of the late Professor Williams, who held the chair of Greek at the Ohio Wesleyan university. There are two daughters and one son.

In the convention which nominated him for governor last year Mr. Pattison had the support chiefly of the rural counties. He was nominated on the first ballot. He made an aggressive campaign against Governor Harrison, whom he defeated by about 48,000 plurality, while the other candidates on the state Democratic ticket were defeated. After the election Mr. Pattison began to feel the strain of his campaign. The reaction was so great that he went south for retirement and rest until he could take up the duties of his office.

Inauguration day was a severe tax on his health on account of the inclement weather and the natural exhaustion that comes even to strong men in such physical ordeals. He bore up with great fortitude through all the ceremonies of the day, but since then his health failed gradually. Although occasional temporary improvement gave encouragement to hope for his recovery, his malady was relentless and here his strength nearer the grave until the relapse which sent him a few days ago destroyed all prospect for his restoration to health.

After inauguration day Mr. Pattison was never at his office in the state capital, his secretary, Lewis H. Houck, who was his running mate in the campaign last year as candidate for lieutenant governor, assuming the exacting care of the office work usually attended to by the governor. So far as able Governor Pattison performed at the hospital and at his home such official duties as required his signature.

Herbert's Message.

Cleveland, O., June 19.—Former Governor Myron T. Herrick, who was defeated by Governor Pattison last fall, upon being informed of the death of the latter sent the following telegram of sympathy to Mr. Pattison: "The long and painful illness of the chief executive, doubtless augmented by the exacting duties and cares of office, have called forth universal sympathy, and I join with all of the people of Ohio at this hour in extending to the bereaved family and friends my most profound sympathy."

HARRIS IS ACTING GOVERNOR

He Will Not Promulgate His Official Policy Until After Obsequies at Milford—Took Oath of Office at His Home in Eaton.

Columbus, O., June 19.—After being officially advised of the death of Governor Pattison, the lieutenant governor of Ohio, General Andrew L. Harris, went before a magistrate at his home in Eaton and took the oath of office.

Tuesday he came to Columbus and was met at the station by State Secretary Laylin and other state officials, who escorted him to the executive office at the state house.

State officials met at the state house to take appropriate action. It was decided to attend the funeral of the late governor, which will be held at Milford Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A special train will be run from Columbus to convey the state's representatives.

Committees were appointed to arrange the funeral and have charge of preparations for the funeral, and it was decided to close the state house all day Thursday.

The following were named as honorary pallbearers: Judge John A. Shuck, State Secretary L. O. Laylin, State Auditor Guilbert, Insurance Commissioner Vawter, Mayor Dempsey of Cincinnati, Mayor Johnson of Cleveland, Mayor Whitlock of Toledo, Senator Williams, Speaker Thompson, H. C. Garber, J. W. Paulmier, representing the press; J. B. McMillan of Springfield, and Rev. Lucien Clark, pastor King Avenue Methodist church at Columbus, who was chaplain of Governor Pattison's regiment.

General Harris declined to talk of his duties as governor, when asked about them, saying that now was not the time for such matters. There is naturally much speculation among politicians as to what he will do regarding the few appointments Governor Pattison made. The general notion is that he will not disturb them. The many other appointments to be made of course will be made from a party standpoint.

Following are the appointments made by Governor Pattison:

His official staff, including Secretary L. B. Houck and Adjutant General O. H. Hughes.

Harry B. Taylor, a trustee of the Gallipolis hospital.

E. W. Clayton, a manager of the penitentiary.

W. L. Finley, state oil inspector.

D. S. Cramer, state fire marshal.

J. W. Johnson, visiting supervisor, Jamestown exposition, commission.

The trustees of the hospital for the criminal insane.

A judge of the common pleas court in the Van Wert district.

Only the appointments of the executive staff and that of Harry B. Taylor of Portsmouth, to be a Gallipolis hospital trustee, have been confirmed by the senate. The others are merely on the appointment record, and the appointees have their commissions. Governor Harris may send them to the senate when it convenes, or he may annul them and send in other names.

After the lieutenant governor, next in succession is the president pro tempore of the senate, Senator James M. Williams of Cuyahoga county. The succession next devolves upon the speaker of the house, Colonel Caym A. Thompson of Lawrence county. There is only one precedent for the calamity which has befallen the state of Ohio. Six governors have resigned, but only one died in office. This was John Brough, who died in August, 1865. He was succeeded by Charles Anderson, who served the remaining portion of the term. Before the adoption of the second constitution, there was no office of lieutenant governor.

Lieutenant Governor Harris in succeeding to the governorship, according to wording of the state constitution, will continue to be lieutenant governor, but will "perform the duties pertaining to the office of governor," "execute the office of governor," and "exercise the office of governor," each of these expressions being used. In the opinion of constitutional lawyers, no vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor has been created. Therefore, Governor Harris as acting governor will not appoint a lieutenant governor. The present instance is not a parallel case to that of Lieutenant Governor Nippert. When Nippert resigned the lieutenant governorship to become probate judge of Hamilton county, there was created a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor. This vacancy the supreme court in its decision of the test suit brought by Judge of this city, ordered Governor Nippert to fill. He did so by the appointment of Henry L. Gordon of Cincinnati. In the present instance a vacancy has occurred in the governorship, but not in the lieutenant governorship. So clear is this point in the minds of lawyers that Attorney General Ellis considers it not necessary incumbent upon Governor Harris to take the oath of office as governor. However, he doubtless will do so, and without delay.

General Andrew L. Harris, who has been lieutenant governor, was born on a farm in Butler county, Nov. 17, 1835, and has lived on a farm most of his life. When he was three years old his family removed to Preble county. He attended Miami university, being graduated in 1858. He then came to the farm, but was soon called from it by the civil war.

Lincoln's first call for troops for three months' service received a prompt response from him. He was mustered in as second lieutenant of Company C, Twentieth O. V. I., April 17, 1860. In November, 1861, he became captain of Company C, Seventy-fifth O. V. I. He was promoted to major in January, 1863, and to a colonelcy four months later. He was brevetted brigadier general in 1865.

General Harris was wounded twice, once at McDowell, Va., where he was shot through the right arm and side, a wound that still occasionally gives him trouble; and again at Gettysburg, Pa., where, leading a regiment, he was shot through the left side. From this wound he completely recovered.

Upon his return from the war, General Harris was chosen state senator. He left the farm to study law, as his severe wounds rendered manual labor impossible for him. Later, however, he again took up farming, although continuing his practice of law. In 1870 he was elected probate judge, holding the office for two terms. A decade later he once more entered the state legislature, this time as a representative, and served two terms.

His next appearance in public life was in 1891, when he was nominated for lieutenant governor on the ticket which McKinley headed. He preceded over the senate two terms, then ran for congress against Paul Borg in a district which had a normal Democratic plurality of 4,000. He lost by only 200. In 1895 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the gubernatorial nomination against Asa B. Bushnell. President McKinley appointed him a member of the United States industrial commission, which completed its labors in 1902. In May, 1895, he was nominated for lieutenant governor, an event which was followed by his election Nov. 3 over Louis D. Houck, the Democratic nominee, who has been Governor Pattison's private secretary.

Although residing in Eaton, General Harris has for a number of years given his active directing attention to his magnificent farm of 500 acres situated a few miles out of the town. He makes no specialty in his farm work, giving attention only to the cultivation of the ordinary farm products.

Mrs. Fred Wheeler, who resides north of town, is reported as much improved from attacks of appendicitis.

WERE BORNE MORTAL REMAINS OF OHIO'S GOVERNOR.

THE LAST RITES AT MILFORD

State Officials, Political and Business Associates and Friends Attended the Obsequies—Simple Services at the Home and Grave.

Milford, O., June 21.—After a simple funeral service attended by state officials, business associates and friends from all parts of the country, the body of Governor Pattison of Ohio, was consigned to the grave. At noon the residence was opened to the public and for two hours a stream of home people and visitors passed the house in which the governor lay, after which the funeral services began.

Rev. Marion LeSourd, pastor of the Milford Methodist Episcopal church, was in charge and opened the service by reading Psalm six and 1. Corinthians iv, 4:58, following with a short address. Dr. Richard H. Rust of Xenia offered prayer. Mrs. Corinne Moore Lawson sang "O, Come Unto Me." Judson Harmon of Cincinnati, a life-long friend, spoke on the political life of Governor Pattison. Bishop Henry Spillmeyer of Cincinnati delivered the funeral sermon, which was read the funeral service, which was brief. Mrs. Lawson then sang Tenney's "Crossing the Bar," and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. M. LeSourd.

The first regiment of Cincinnati, in command of Colonel Hake, led the funeral procession. The caasket was carried from the residence by eight privates of company K, Fourth regiment of state guards, as active pallbearers, and placed in the funeral car.

The governor's son is a member of company K, having joined while attending college at Delaware, O. The eight men to whom this honor falls are Sergeant Cellars, P. Winemiller, Harry Dalt, William Shaw, Ralph Waters, W. K. Schaefer, C. Newton and Gorman Knapp.

The procession wound its way to Greenlawn cemetery, where it halted. The caasket was carried to the family lot and lowered into a steel vault. The interment was private, only the family and pastor being at the grave, the burial services being read by Rev. M. LeSourd.

By request of Mrs. Pattison, the firing of a farewell salute over the grave was dispensed with, but at the conclusion of the service the regimental bugler sounded taps. The regimental band marched at the head of the procession but the instruments were silent, the wishes of the wife having prevailed and the first plans in this regard having been abandoned.

A special train from Columbus arrived at noon bringing Lieutenant Governor Harris and other state officials, members of the legislature and employees in state departments. Governor Harris was attended by the military staff of the chief executive in full dress uniforms as follows: Adjutant General Oliver H. Hughes, Assistant Adjutant General Washington Kautzman and Alden Camp, Lieutenant Colonel C. C. Weybrecht, Major George W. Cunningham, Captain F. M. Fanning, Captain Julius A. Blasius, Captain James H. Williams, Captain George H. Wood, Captain Robert L. Dunning, Captain Harry D. Knox, Captain Joseph A. Hall and Lieutenant Harry Moulton.

Special trains bearing blue companies of militia, attached to the first regiment of Cincinnati, a battery of light artillery and a heavy field gun, arrived in the morning. The troops were in command of Colonel Charles Hake. The soldiers were dressed in the blue dress uniforms, white collars and gloves, black belt and carried carbines and haversacks filled with one day's rations.

The soldiers were stationed on all parts of the grounds about the residence, and four noncommissioned officers were detailed to duty as guards of honor at the door. Strict orders were given to the military to prevent vandalism of morbid souvenir hunters.

Two companies of the militia were detailed to police the entire village and the troop train brought 10 city detectives and plain clothes men from Cincinnati to act in conjunction with Colonel Hake.

be required to appoint a lieutenant governor in the case of the death or resignation of the latter officer. This was decided in the case brought during Governor Nash's administration, when a vacancy ensued by the resignation of Lieutenant Governor Nippert, Governor Nash appointed Henry L. Gordon lieutenant governor. But the case is different when a governor dies and the lieutenant governor, in compliance with the constitution, performs the duties of the office. There is no lieutenant governor to appoint; otherwise the order of succession provided by the constitution would be impossible. The law provides that if the lieutenant governor dies while performing the duties of the office the president pro tempore of the senate would become acting governor. And so in the case of a vacancy in the latter office the speaker of the house would succeed to the duties of the governor.

The salary of the governor was raised by the legislature last winter to $10,000 a year. Governor Pattison could not have been benefited by this, even if he had lived out his full term, because the change was made during the year he died.

LEUTENANT GOVERNOR

His States After Death of Governor Not Yet Settled.

Columbus, O., June 21.—Governor Harris was called from his home to the capital by an extraordinary case, but as he found it unimportant he laid it aside in conformity with his resolution to attend to no executive business until after the funeral at Milford.

It is yet undecided as to whether General Harris will succeed to the prerogatives of the executive office as acting governor, or whether he will enter into full possession of the title and thereby create a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor. It is said he will not call a special session of the legislature, and that he will not appoint a lieutenant governor. Attorney General Ellis is quoted as holding that there is no vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor. State Secretary Laylin is of the same opinion.

In this connection Secretary Laylin said: "The constitution provides that in the event of the death or disability of the governor the lieutenant governor shall perform the duties and exercise the powers of the office. He becomes acting governor, but I do not believe a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor would be created by such emergency. The governor would

You Must Sleep.

If you cannot, it is due to an irritated or congested state of the brain, which will soon develop into nervous prostration.

Nature demands sleep, and it is as important as food; it is a part of her building and sustaining process. This period of unconsciousness relaxes the mental and physical strain, and allows nature to restore exhausted vitality.

Dr. Miles' Nervine brings refreshing sleep, because it soothes the irritation and removes the congestion.

It is also a nerve builder; it nourishes and strengthens every nerve in your body, and creates energy in all the organs.

Nothing will give strength and vitality as surely and quickly as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

During the past winter I had two attacks of indigestion which left me very weak, and in bad condition. I was no longer able to sleep, and after trying different remedies, went for a doctor. The doctor was out, and a neighbor recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and she brought home a bottle of it. I took it for some time, and had terrible pains in my head. After taking a few doses of Nervine the pains were gone, and I was able to sleep. I am now taking the second bottle, and feel much better.

IN QUIETUDE.

John M. Pattison is dead. The Governor of this great state has been laid to rest and it may be hoped that his grave will be undisturbed.

During the months of sickness and convalescence by the Governor he was constantly annoyed by selfish politicians of both parties and particularly by conscienceless interests questioning physical ability to discharge the duties of his office.

It is conceded that the actions of certain interest had much to do with the patient recovering his strength. Reports of all characters were in circulation and it was impossible to keep some of these from reaching him.

The most outrageous examples of inhumane acts were those connected with the Ohio penitentiary in the Governor's attempt to place the institution under better management. The press circulated all over the state the intentions of those to be deposed. The public mind became so inflamed that the matter was dropped and the greedy politicians and office holders retired. Another example just last week was that of the State Printer, Mark Slater, who refused to give over his office to his successor, J. W. Johnson.

Now that all that is mortal of John M. Pattison has been laid in its last resting place let the acts of the legislature and that of the deceased executor be accepted as the best and stop the contention in the courts.

As an octopus outer it would be hard to beat the President. This administration will have many things to be remembered by, but few will rank in popular memory with the number of trust detected and exposed. In fact it looks as though the President's dictum that there were good and bad trusts was near the point of disappearing. He has certainly located a plethora of bad trusts, but there seems to be a minus mark still on the side of the good ones. And the latest of these is the packing scandal in Chicago. The President would have passed this by in silence if he could, and very properly too. It would have made for personal popularity and would have been good campaign material, but the President would have foregone both of these issues if he could have corrected the evil without publicity. But he could not.

There was a good deal of surprise last week when it developed that Senator Beveridge had offered an amendment to the Agricultural Department Appropriation bill providing for very drastic meat inspection, to expenses to be borne by the packers. There was not even a division asked for on the amendment, which was really a rider on a very important bill. From this curious piece of legislation developed the whole story. It seems that last February there was written a novel purporting to deal with the packing house conditions in Chicago. The novel was outrageous in its statements. But the President sent out a private commission, composed of the Commissioner of Labor and a Mr. J. B. Reynolds, who is not connected in any way with the government service, to ascertain the facts in the case. They reported that the novel, which it is unnecessary to advertise by name, had not overdrawn the picture at all, and that the conditions in Chicago were almost too disgusting to print. It was obvious that another trust scandal had been unearthed and thought it would have been good campaign material, an effort was made to tack the Beveridge amendment to the Agricultural Appropriation bill and correct the condition without creating a scandal that would affect our trade abroad. This was a patriotic enough plan, but the story leaked out from some source or other and now the story has been blown broad east. Probably little harm has been done. Foreign dealers have been making the most of the story as disclosed in the novel for months past, and it is just as well for the people in this country to get at the truth of the story and let what credit there is in it go to the record of the Administration.

It is impossible to estimate what the full effect of his death beyond general sorrow and mourning will be. Of his loss to his family it is not for us to speak. To his friends it is bitter. To his business associates irreparable, and to the state, under present conditions, a direful calamity. It is hard to think of the moral situation in Ohio without Mr. Pattison's influence and personality, but we know that readjustment and changes follow such a loss, just what they will be time will tell.

Bowed in sorrow over the dead, there is one consoling thought. He who gave his life for his people was worthy of the honors the people bestowed on him and the love they felt for him for serving them ably, zealously, honestly and to the limit of his strength.

JOHN M. PATTISON.

Monuments and palaces; temples and castles; schools and churches have been erected as a memorial to great men. History has recorded the works of great men that will live eternally but the monument that John M. Pattison, late Governor of this Commonwealth leaves, is his upright character, which is more beautiful and enduring than sculptured marble and will be perpetuated in the minds and hearts of posterity.

His deeds speak louder for him than can tongue or pen; the glory of his name will never die. Deeply religious, a believer in the observance of all law, fearless in expression and practice of high ideals, backed by a strong and determined personality, his beneficent achievements for humanity and mankind, still sweeping onward, will not fade or fall until they break in that happy murmur on the shores of time.

It is seldom that a man of this type is chosen as a leader of the people particularly so in this day and age when political lines are drawn as they are. But few men realized in this one man the strength that he commanded until the canvas of the vote last fall. Elected on the Democratic ticket irrespective of party platform, he was chosen Governor on the promises of a better business administration. His campaign was the most remarkable in the history of the state and the confidence of the whole people was thrust upon him in the hope of reform. Though he had but few months in office, and never a day in his private office, his personal influence brought about many changes that have been productive of good results.

His death at this time therefore comes as a public calamity for his work of placing this state on a higher plane of morality had only begun. His dominating will power to do right as his conscience dictated, evidently had much to do towards awarding off the onslaughts of the evil forces in criticism of his acts to embarrass the administration. Mr. Pattison is one of Ohio's sons, sprung from her soil, nurtured in her bosom, a product of her institutions, and an exponent of all that is best in her life. He never shirked duty nor evaded responsibility. He made friends because he dealt with them as he would be dealt by. He held them because his promise was as good as his bond. Honesty was the best policy in politics as in everything else. In financial and business circles his advice was eagerly sought and implicitly followed.

It is impossible yet to estimate what the full effect of his death beyond general sorrow and mourning will be. Of his loss to his family it is not for us to speak. To his friends it is bitter. To his business associates irreparable, and to the state, under present conditions, a direful calamity. It is hard to think of the moral situation in Ohio without Mr. Pattison's influence and personality, but we know that readjustment and changes follow such a loss, just what they will be time will tell.

Bowed in sorrow over the dead, there is one consoling thought. He who gave his life for his people was worthy of the honors the people bestowed on him and the love they felt for him for serving them ably, zealously, honestly and to the limit of his strength.

DEATH'S HARVEST.

News of the sudden death of Rev. David Steel, D. D., L. L. D., which occurred at his home in Philadelphia, caused profound sorrow among the many friends and relatives in this county. His death occurred Friday afternoon after about a week's illness.

The deceased was about 80 years of age and his life was spent in church work. His only charge being that of the Fourth Reformed Presbyterian church in his home city. His congregation was the largest in the General Synod.

For a number of years Dr. Steel was connected with the Reformed Presbyterian Seminary at Philadelphia being professor of theology, which position he held at the time of his death.

Dr. Steel received his early education at Miami University where he received both of his degrees.

About fifty years ago he was married to Miss Elizabeth Dallas, one daughter of the late Samuel Dallas and a sister of Mr. D. M. Dallas, one of the honored families of the township.

Two children, Rev. James Steel, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Passaic, N. J. Miss Margaret Steel at home, besides the mother remain to mourn the loss of husband and father.

The funeral was held Wednesday, burial at Philadelphia.

By the death of Thomas Arthur, this township loses one of its prominent citizens, the spirit having taken its flight Monday night.

Mr. Arthur was about 62 years of age and had been sick with bright disease for many months. At times it was thought that his recovery was possible but he was unable to wear out the ravages of the disease.

He was married a number of years ago to Miss Jennie Mathewson, who with one daughter and three sons survive. Warren Arthur of Cincinnati, Stewart, John and Miss Eva Arthur at home.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. B. Henry, who gave comforting thoughts to the bereaved family.

Mr. Arthur was a member of the I. O. O. F. in Springfield, Mr. C. W. Crouse had charge of the services for the order.

Burial took place at Massies Creek. The following were the pallbearers: C. W. Crouse, Samuel Hagler, D. H. Cushman, Frank Townsend, John Nelson Gordon Collins.

Mr. Arthur Forbes died Monday afternoon after suffering several years with rheumatism and asthma. Of late he had been unable to get around and was confined to the house.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Florence, who lived at home with her father, Mrs. H. W. Collins, Trenton, O., and Mr. Will Forbes of Clifton.

The funeral services were held Wednesday being conducted by Rev. W. R. McChesney. Burial took place at Clifton, the services at the grave being in charge of Rev. Brownlee.

A reunion of the 44 O. V. I. and 6th O. V. C. will be held at the home of Mr. W. J. Smith Friday, June 23.

Mrs. Anna Pennington Gowdy, Columbus, O., Mrs. John Pearce, Mr. E. T. Tarbox and wife, of Xenia and Mr. Thomas Moore, and Mrs. Mary Barber of Jamestown were entertained today at the home of Mr. W. M. Barber.

A Mountain of Gold could not bring as much happiness to Mrs. Lucie Wilke, of Caroline, Wis., as did one box of Budde's Arnica Balm, when it completely cured a running sore on her leg, which had tortured her 23 long years. Direct antiseptic healer of Piles, Wounds and Sores. Also All Druggists.

GAS COMPANY REFUSED TIME.

It is the general belief that council has made a mistake in not granting the Ohio Gas and Electric Company an extension of time as was asked for some weeks ago.

Different members of council hold that the price, 20 cents per thousand was too high and that before any time was given a reduction should be made.

The time for asking the price was when the ordinance was granted and not now. It was expected that the company would have had some work done here by this time but for some reason or another it has not even been started. Gas is something that the people want and there should be no dilatory tactics used to keep the company out.

It is not necessary for the company to sell their gas here as other towns that are progressive, grant most any concession to get something that attracts manufacturers and is of great use about every household.

It is for this reason that council should hear with the company in this matter and encourage them coming in rather than to discourage. The people want the gas and have not yet advanced an argument on the price. Gas at thirty cents a thousand is said to be equal to coal at $3.00 per ton. It is readily seen that gas will be the cheaper to say the least of the convenience.

It developed at the last meeting of council that the company had ordered pipe shipped here but as council had refused to grant an extension of time the company has canceled the order.

Gas companies want to sell their product and fortunately for them they have a commodity that people demand and for this reason council should have granted the time in the interest of the public. We agree that if there was a chance to get it at a lower rate that it was proper to do so but not so far as to lose the opportunity altogether.

The reason, being advanced by many at the present time as to why council refused to grant the extension was that the use of gas would probably interfere with the coal trade of one of the members of council, Andrew White. Mr. Andrew has displayed no attitude in this effect he has objected to the price and this may be the grounds for killing the chances of gas in the corporation.

As gas corporations are perfectly able to care for themselves and the only interest the Herald has in the case is that we want the gas, the people want it and are willing to pay the 20 cents rather than miss it. It then matters little to council so long as the public favors the price.

The only thing for council to do is to grant the extension of time. By doing this the company is given another opportunity to come in. If they fail then give them still more time. It costs nothing and keeps no other company out. Council should not let the success of one firm displace a whole community and perhaps keep out others that might be induced to locate here by the introduction of gas.

Postmaster Robbed.
G. W. Fouts, Postmaster at River-ton, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of nearly all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my fingernails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters, which cured me and have kept me well for eleven years." Bore cure for Biliousness, Neuralgia, Weakness and all Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bladder derangements. A wonderful tonic. At All Druggists, 50 cents.

The Song of the Hair

There are four verses. Verse 1. Ayer's Hair Vigor stops falling hair. Verse 2. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow. Verse 3. Ayer's Hair Vigor cures dandruff. Verse 4. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the scalp healthy, and keeps it so. It is a regular hair-food; this is the real secret of its wonderful success.

That's what it does. It makes the scalp healthy, and keeps it so. It is a regular hair-food; this is the real secret of its wonderful success.

NATURE OF GOVERNOR'S TROUBLE

During the five months of Governor Patton's illness there was great uncertainty as to the nature of his trouble, and a statement just issued by Dr. Oliver, Holt and Bell, who attended him, is of much interest. In the course of their statement they say: "The illness of the late Governor Patton was essentially due to overwork. Although but 52 years of age, he showed the effects of stress and strain which ordinarily accompany a life of three score years and ten. His symptoms were first apparent in damage wrought in his blood vessels. His arteries showed the changes which usually appear in the blood vessels of men further advanced in years. His kidneys also indicated that he had lived many years physiologically than he actually enjoyed since his birth. The deficient circulation through these organs led to an attack of uraemia, which very nearly proved fatal before he left Columbus for Christ hospital. During a period of six or seven weeks Governor Patton exhibited a marked improvement. We were all much encouraged and hoped for a prolonged period of freedom from uraemic poisoning, but after a rapid improvement of some weeks there ensued a period of insidious approach of the uraemic symptoms, and he speedily but surely approached the end of his life. Governor Patton's mind was clear and his intellect was unclouded except a short period when the uraemic symptoms were most active."

UNSETTLED QUESTION

As to Status of General Harris Since Death of the Governor.

Columbus, O., June 20.—Some difference of opinion exists as to the official status of General Harris since the death of Governor Patton. The question is whether as acting governor he will remain lieutenant governor with the salary of that office, $15,000 per year, or whether he succeeds to the full right, title and emoluments of the governor. If the latter he will draw a salary of $10,000 for the next 2 1/2 years, and is the first governor to receive more than $5,000. The salary was raised by the legislature this spring, but the increase could not apply to the incumbent. It has been established that an acting governor is paid the salary of the governor.

If he succeeds to the full power of governor an effort will be made to have his appoint a lieutenant governor, as Governor Nash did when Cary Newport resigned from the office of lieutenant governor. In that instance Harry Gordon of Cincinnati was appointed over Senator Frank Archer, who was president pro tem of the senate, the same position now occupied by Senator Williams of Cleveland. The courts in that case sustained the appointment.

General Harris, after issuing the official proclamation announcing the death of the governor, returned to his home in Eaton to remain there until the funeral, after which he is expected to come to Columbus and enter actively upon his official duties. He would not express himself on the policy of his administration, although an effort was made to get an expression from him as to the enforcement of Sunday laws. As to his official staff he said: "I have requested Secretary Houck and the clerks in this office to remain for the present, and they have kindly agreed to do so."

According to custom the emblems of mourning now being upon the capital will remain one month and for the same period officers of the national guard will wear crepe on their capotes. The executive clerk is named at the pleasure of the incumbent, so that it is not certain the present employee in the governor's office will be succeeded by General Harris. Among those mentioned as likely to succeed Secretary Lewis D. Howell are John R. Malloy, former oil inspector; G. C. Lemert of Kenton, executive clerk under Nash and Herriot; and R. W. Walton, another clerk in the governor's office under Nash and Herriot. This matter, like the others to come up, will not be taken up till after the funeral at Bedford.

BIDS WERE NOT OPENED.

At the adjourned meeting of council held Friday evening a levy often mills was asked of the county auditor for running the village the coming year.

The principle object of the meeting was to open bids for the cutting of the grade on Cedar street. There are three bids in but none of them were opened as the committee appointed to meet the commissioners had failed to have a meeting as to the raising of the coping of the bridge on Bridge street. Most of the dirt taken from Cedar street will be used on Bridge street. The bids will be opened at the next regular meeting.

Ordinances were introduced to adopt the grade and curb line on Main street but after some discussion it was found that the grade established by R. Hood would not do and the street committee will have another one made. The curbs will be moved out three and one-half feet on each side of Main street from Xenia avenue to the railroad. Allowing two feet for gutter on each side the street will be narrowed about eleven feet. "Boss" Andrew and W. L. Clemons were the petitioners for the work while other property owners have protested. Council is moving slow with this work knowing that the corporation might have to stand damage suits.

J. C. Foley, the solicitor, was instructed to draw up a notice for Xenia avenue for a new grade. When this is done it will be three or four feet for that street. Although council suffered a defeat in the decision of the Welford injunction case, the Andrews have sharpened their ax and will try to continue the fight. Member Andrew instructed Foley to see that the papers were made "air tight" this time. The solicitor was warned, probably in view of the fact that his blunder on the Atchell case cost the tax payers several extra dollars.
